Dear John

RE: University of Sydney – Directional and Information Signs

On behalf of the University of Sydney, I would like sincerely thank you and your team at Central Signs, for the successful completion of our project.

Your company responded to a public tender, which you won competitively for our new directional and information signage system that comprised of a complex and unique system which included, 12 off Type UM, 8 off Type MD and 22 off Type SD signs.

The Type UM signs were a particularly unique and complex aspect of the work, as they incorporated many features which had to be specially built into the one sign. Those features included LED displays, security voice intercoms, information intercoms, tactile/braille map, large digital illuminated maps, illuminated poster display, illuminated headers, brochure dispensers and special weatherproof electrical cabinets etc.

As part of your contract, you also successfully managed major sub contractors responsible for the data and power cabling, civil works, voice intercoms, LED's and tactile/braille signage. Incorporated into these works were the constant liaising with our graphics designers to assist with resolving design and construction issues.

The signage is a significant investment for the University and it was of vital importance that everything came together without any serious problems.

I have received numerous compliments and positive comments regarding this project, and I must say that I personally am also delighted with the overall visual effect that the signs have already established around our facilities.

Again, congratulations on an excellent job, and I would have no hesitation in recommending you and Central Signs to anyone who wants to proceed with a signage project and in particular one of similar magnitude and complexity as this.

Yours faithfully
